Catches Fire-1he Flames Under Con-

WASHINGTON, D. C.. Jan. 25.—A fire broke out in one of the upper stories of the Navy Hepartment building about 1 e'clock this alternoon.

All the fire engines of the city are on the spot, but their effort to extinguish it has thus far been unavailing. The flames are said to be spreading throughout the building, which it is feared will be enfirely destroyed.

UNDER CONTROL.

P. M.—The fire is now under control of the fire department, and it is not probable that it can extend any further.

As far as can be ascertained, the damage by the fire is confined to the northeast upper story. The damage by water is considerable. Many documents were damaged by being thrown out on the wet ground.

The Weeks and Paris Death Struggle. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—The fight be-ween William Weeks and George E. tween William Weeks and George E. Paris was one of the fiercest death struggles ever witnessed.

After the passage of words, Weeks snapped his pistol at his opponent three times, then dealt him a terrible blow on the head; both clinched, so that it was impossible to separate them; Paris drew a bowie knife and cut Weeks several times, severing the muscles and arteries of his arms. Weeks fell on the floor, and rising again rushed on Paris, and again reeeived the knife in his side. Lying prostrate, Weeks made several attempts to rise, and each time was stabbed by the murderer, who was afterward surrendered to the police.

ton were absent.

After the opening of the Court Shearman read from a copy of Woodhull & Ciafiln's Weekly, of November 2, 1872, containing the alleged Beecher libel. He confined himself to the one sentence:

"A prominent preacher of Brooklyn lives to programment preacher of Brooklyn lives in open concubinage with several member.

Fullerton objected to the reading of any other portions; that it had no rejer-ence to defendant. It merely related to Moulton and Titon, and it preferred no charge against Beecher that he was bound to meet in this case. Snearman maintained that the whole story was an affected case. Beecher was in one part charged with adultery, and Moulton was accused of a vile crime in placing a pistol to Beecher's head, and demanding the paper contain-ing his friend's whie's contession and retraction. Mr. Beach opposed it in a lengthy speech, contending that the reading of the whole story would embarrass e Court and jury. What Beecher's counsel wanted to read was the atrocious sentiments of Mrs. Woodhull on the marriage relation. Afterwards there was a speech from Evarts. The Court allowed certain portions of the story to be read, under the agreement that all immaterial para-spreament that all immaterial paragraphs were to be stricken out.

Shearman read atmost the entiry story and Judge Neilson admitted that part where Mrs. Woodhull states that Theodore was her pupil, and believed in doctrines she advovated. Tracy then again began Moulton's cross examination.

The Supposed Murder.

Coroner Maley and a jury to-day commenced an inquest into the circumstan-ces of the death of Herman Gri: pe, whose dead body was found on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, Saturday morning, and who is supposed to have been murdered, one Henry Sewanke having been arrested on suspicion.
The first witness called was John Grippe, who testified that he was a brother of the deceased and lived at No. 114 Broa lway. He stated that his brother was a man of steady and temperate habits, who never drank to excess, that he knew of no difficulty between him and Schwanke, and had never heard of Schwanke mak-ing any threats on his brother's life. Had never heard his brother make any threats to commit suicide.

Officer Casper, of the Tenth District
Police Station; testified that on Friday Police Station; testified that on Friday night he and his partner found a man lying in the road at Camp Washington whom they supposed to be drunk, that in answer to the question where he lived he had said, "In town about two squares off;" that they had started with him to the station-house, but were detained by a man resembling Schwanke, who came from the direction of Cumminsville, and who told them that he knew the man, that he lived on Betts street, and that he would take him home.

On this they left the two and went to the station. Early next morning they found the remains of a man scattered along the railroad line and had taken them to Miller the undertaker, and notified the torner of the converse.

them to Miller the undertaker, and notified the Coroner of the occurrence.

Officer Fennessy testified to substantially the same as Casper. The investigation is still in progress.

An important fact brought out in the festimony in the case of Herman Grippe is that the man Schwanke visited the undertaker's establishment after the remains had been taken in charge by the Constable and before he knew that Grippe was missing, to see them, and refered to say positively whether he identified them or not.

On 'Change-The Texas Pacific Railroad.

The reports of the committee appointed The reports of the committee appointed on 'Change some time since to consider whether the Chamber of Commerce should recommend the passage of Col. Tom Scott's Texas Pacific Railroad Bill, granting aid by the Government to that road, were read to-day on 'Change, a majority report favoring the passage of the oill, and the minority report opposing it. The report which favors its passage says that the road must prove more reliable and less liable to obstruction in winter than the Central or Union Pacific winter than the Central or Union Pacific roads, and that it will prove of great advantage to Cincinnati, as it connects so directly with the city and surrounding country.

It also urges the fact that when the aid to the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Road was granted, the Central Pacific Road was granted, the Southern States were not represented in Congress and it would therefore appear unjust now to refuse this aid to a project which was to prove beneficial to the South, which so much needs all the aid possible now.

The minority report, which was read by Mr. Woolley, refers to the recent developments in Congress regarding subsidies, and says that this could prove nothing short of a subsidy; that the road is to be but an extension of certain is to be but an extension of certain Pennsylvania and New York roads, well able to aid themselves, and that neither branen of the proposed road would reach the pressing demand upon the resources of Government, and the probabilities of additional taxation were required for its expenses.

The minority report was received with considerable applause, and both reports were laid over, under the rules of the Chamber, for consideration to-morrow.
